

Charities Appeals Supplement

The Charities Appeals Supplement continues to help develop fundraising revenue streams for charities through legacies, corporate support and donation.

This section is written by charities detailing their appeals. It is easy to use with a categorised index below and an A–Z index at the end.

If your client is considering leaving a legacy to charity, please encourage them to browse through the appeals when making that important decision. Please mention the Charities Appeals Supplement when contacting a charity.

The team at the Charities Appeals Supplement would like to thank you for your continuing support; especially those who have left legacies to our featured charities over the last year.

THE REMEMBRANCE TRUST

This new charity has been set up to restore and maintain the graves of British and Commonwealth soldiers and sailors who died before 1914. The Commonwealth War Graves Commission cares for graves after this date, but before 1914 no one organization has responsibility, and many of the graves are in a state of serious disrepair.

We have already completed pilot projects on Chapwani Island, Zanzibar, on graves of those who died fighting against the Sultan who refused to abolish slavery, and in the Bayonne Cemetery, France on graves from the Peninsular War. We need to raise funds to create a database of sites worldwide and continue working on similar projects.

The charity's long-term aim is not only to restore graves and memorials, but provide educational and training opportunities. We will create teams of architectural students, youth organisations, military and civilian volunteers to work on the sites, and by doing so will gain a better understanding of our shared global history and preserve our mutual heritage for generations to come.

For more information, or to donate, please visit our website, www.theremembrancetrust.com or email remembrancetrust@gmail.com

The Remembrance Trust is a UK registered Charity No. 1177492.

The Barristers' Benevolent Association exists to support, help and comfort those members of the Bar in England and Wales and their families and dependants who are in need, in distress or in difficulties.

During the recent past we have helped barristers and their families in every circuit, often saving not only dignity but careers.

We are not nearly as well-known in the profession as we would like, and there are possibly people who qualify for our help but aren't aware of our existence... we also feel that there are other people who would be willing to contribute to the welfare of their less fortunate colleagues but who are also unaware of us.

A lifeline for a lifetime

Someone goes missing every 90 seconds, and Missing People is the only UK charity dedicated to bringing the 186,000 children and adults who disappear every year back together with their families.

The charity supports people who are missing, those left behind waiting for news, and anyone thinking of going missing. Last year Missing People reached nearly 100,000 adults, children and families, and listened to more than 2,500 children and young people and nearly 2,000 adults.

Trained support staff and volunteers run the charity's free helpline, which is available 24/7. They also help via text and email. Missing People shares appeals through the media, digital advertising, with poster partners and on the website.

The charity campaigns for legal changes, lobbies the Government, organizes conferences and undertakes research. This July the Guardianship law that the charity and families have long campaigned for was enacted. Now a missing person's finances can be managed to prevent debt and bankruptcy.

Young people recruited by gangs to sell drugs are often forced to go missing and are at risk of violence and abuse. Missing People has developed support services. "I was afraid to speak out because of what they would do to me, but you helped me to see that I could escape and get support," said Annie, 15.

Missing People has pledged to double the number of people they help by 2022. Measures to support this include improving digital services and working in partnership with the police.

Founder Margaret Todd's work with animals began at a very early age when she looked after a German Shepherd called Trixie. When Trixie went back to her owner, she decided she wanted to be Margaret's best friend and escaped so many times, her owner decided to give her up. After this Margaret took many homeless animals into her parents home, nursing them back to health before finding new homes for them. In the 1970's Margaret, together with husband Ron, son Alex and daughter Tina, opened a sanctuary in Kent and became a registered charity in 1981. Since then the sanctuary's work has increased enormously, taking in all kinds of domestic and wild animals. In 1993 Margaret was awarded the MBE for her contribution to animal welfare and in 1994, a veterinary clinic for people on low income was opened, a cause very dear to Margaret's heart. Without these clinics many animals would simply go untreated. We receive no government funding and without your legacies and donations our work could not continue. Please support our work helping animals in need.

Dear every solicitor in England and Wales,

Re: All solicitors are supported in times of need or crisis

When it feels like the rest of the world is against you, don't worry, there is a team that's got your back - but they need our help.

It can sometimes feel like no one's on your side - you've got difficult cases, challenging clients and the stress of dealing with new regulations. It mounts up, pressure builds and worst of all, everyone seems to think, 'cheer up, you're a solicitor, it can't be that bad can it?'

They just don't get it. They don't understand how varied and challenging our profession can be. Trust me, I should know, I've been a solicitor for over 20 years. The people at SBA The Solicitors' Charity are different, they stand by your side no matter what and have been doing it well, for over 160 years in fact.

This is an invitation to find out how your charity can help you and your colleagues with financial, emotional or practical help and how you can help your charity in its work. After all, you never know when you might need their assistance.

Don't leave it to chance... leave it to LAST CHANCE

As animals can't speak for themselves it falls to me to ask you to consider leaving a legacy to Last Chance Animal Rescue. Any money that we may receive will be spent entirely on the running and improvement at the Centre, which is dedicated to the rescuing, rehabilitation and re-homing of dogs and cats etc.

Many of the number we receive have found their way to our door through circumstances such as their beloved owner passing away, may that door always be open. Many are elderly, in their twilight years, and would just love to find a caring retirement home, something we have great success and pleasure in finding for them, and we continue to care for them, young and old, long after they are settled in their new loving homes, by offering all kinds of support, including financial if needed, for their continued welfare and well being.

As you can imagine, this level of commitment doesn't come cheaply, which is why I am appealing to you to remember Last Chance if possible, when you make your will. They do say... where there's a Will there's a way!

Over 60 years of caring for the needs of BSO musicians

The fund is a charity and run by musicians for musicians with some extra help from BSO supporters. It gives financial assistance to players who are ill or no longer receive sick pay from the BSO, funds medical bills and alleviates financial hardship. Like so many charities we are dependent upon public donations and during the last 10 years it has been difficult to match donations with calls on the fund. BSO players always host an annual concert, giving freely of their time to raise money for their colleagues. The fund relies on voluntary donations as well as the self funded concerts. It is administered by volunteers, there are no employees and our overheads are minimal so every pound given can help a sick or injured player.

If you believe in reincarnation there are some animals you wouldn't want to be

Imagine a life of imprisonment in a cramped cage and being the subject of constant experimentation; a lifetime of suffering followed by a painful death. That's the cruel and futile fate suffered by millions of laboratory animals in the name of research.

The National Anti-Vivisection Society (NAVS) is the world's premier and leading group, working for an end to the suffering of animals in laboratories.

If you knew animals were being abused, could you rest in peace?

Sadly, throughout their lives, the last thing many animals experience is peace. Pepe the spider monkey, for example, was chained by his neck and imprisoned in a circus. They snapped off his canine teeth and kept him in isolation.

He was one of the lucky ones because he was rescued by Animal Defenders International (ADI). He can now live in peace with his own kind. ADI is a major international force in animal protection.

Please help us to help other animals like Pepe to live in peace by making a bequest today to Animal Defenders International.

Helping others with High Blood Pressure

Have you thought of Blood Pressure UK in your Will?

Finding out that you have high blood pressure is traumatic, particularly if you are young. Most people don't know anything about the condition and worry about how it will affect themselves and those around them.

But Blood Pressure UK is here to help, and with our information packs, range of leaflets and our helpline, we provide reassurance and support to sufferers and their families. But all of this work is expensive and while membership subscriptions and general donations help enormously, leaving a gift in your Will can help us make a bigger difference.

It isn't complicated as you think, doesn't have to be a large amount and will give you the reassurance that our work helping fellow sufferers will continue once you have gone.

Obviously, providing for your family and friends comes first, but once that is done please consider a gift to Blood Pressure UK in your Will.

We have put together a simple leaflet to guide you through the process and you can get a copy by telephoning: (020) 7882 6255, visiting the website:

www.bloodpressureuk.org, or by writing to: Blood Pressure UK, Wolfson Institute, Charterhouse Square, London, EC1M 6BQ.

Animal Defenders International is a major international force in animal protection, working on such issues as the use of animals in entertainment, the worldwide traffic in endangered species and alternatives to the use of animals in research. Recent campaign successes include the introduction of a ban on the use of wild animals in Peru and Colombia.

Animal Defenders International also rescue animals in distress and, following the ban in Peru, worked with the authorities to seize and relocate over 100 animals in the biggest operation of its kind.

been making a real difference to the 16 million people affected by high blood pressure in the UK. We work to ensure that high blood pressure is at the top of everyone's health agenda: within the Government, among health professionals, in the media and for every adult in the UK. Our vision is that everyone will know their blood pressure numbers, in the same way that they know their height or weight, and take steps to keep them healthy both now and in the future. High blood pressure can be treated and prevented.

Blood Pressure UK relies on donations and legacies. Your invaluable support will help to ensure they continue its important work and make a vital difference to the lives of those at risk from the effects of high blood.

We make grants to musicians and staff who are employees of the Bournemouth Symphony Orchestra and other individuals who have made a significant long-term contribution to the orchestra. The grants are to relieve hardship caused by sickness accident or infirmity. Funds are raised from the net proceeds of an annual concert and donations from supporters.

During the years we have helped players who are on long-term sick leave or with a contribution towards private medical treatment. More recently there has been a sharp increase in the assistance we give players for private medical treatment, including major operations on joints. This is normally required as a result of repair to a repetitive strain injury incurred whilst playing. This is also a reflection on the lengthening waiting lists for NHS treatment. If there is a delay in treatment, members are unable to work, sometimes for many months which can cause hardship for their families.

We have recently marked our 60th year as a benevolent fund but in current financial times it is becoming increasingly difficult to match our aspirations with a reduced income. But we are boosting our fundraising efforts to ensure that we can be here for the next 60 years!

Over 200 years of caring for the needs of artists and their dependants

The ABF are proud to have served the artists' community for over 200 years and now we have launched a new grant scheme to support working artists at key moments in their careers.

The ABF believes that many talented artists face great difficulties in sustaining and developing their careers. Our grant scheme is designed to support artists who can demonstrate how an award can assist them in consolidating and continuing their career as a professional artist.

The scheme will make it possible for artists to seize creative opportunities and develop their work for the future.

Please help us to continue to our work with the existing beneficiaries and to make funds available to other artists in times of need.

Your wish to help animals will be assured by including a gift in your will to "Friends of the Animals". The primary objective of the Charity is to help animals NOW we do not 'sit on funds'. Concentrating on 'preventative' work such as spays, neuters, inoculations, boosters and free engraved discs; we never destroy a healthy animal and keep admin costs to a minimum.

We have:-

- ▶ Re-homed 9,000+ animals.
- ▶ Spayed/neutered 38,500 animals.
- ▶ Built stables for donkeys and ex-pit ponies.
- ▶ Currently funding 465 rescued farm animals.
- ▶ Distributed over 1,641,000 items of pet food.
- ▶ Supplied almost 20,000 engraved, identity discs FOC.
- ▶ Given numerous educational talks on animal welfare.
- ▶ Wormed and inoculated thousands of animals – many for the first time in their lives!
- ▶ Stepped in to ensure food, safety and new homes for 97 Urban Farm animals, when their owner went out of business.

The majority of animals that come into our care arrive in a poor state. Our reward is seeing those same animals go to their new homes a few weeks later: well fed, groomed, wormed, inoculated and neutered.

VETERINARY TREATMENT is – and always has been – BY FAR OUR BIGGEST OUTGOING.

You have many choices of Charities to support but no one appreciates it more – or tries harder than we do – to get the very best possible from every penny donated.

Your help today will ensure a happier tomorrow for countless animals. I send my grateful thanks.

The Lord Whisky Sanctuary Fund is a lifeline for animals of all kinds.

We provide sanctuary to animals who become homeless or who have been injured or abused and vital veterinary care to those on low incomes. We also provide cattery/kennel facilities for your pets whilst you are away from home.

Lord Whisky was named after a Jack Russell who came to live at the Sanctuary when he was four years old, having had six previous homes. He lived with the founder, Margaret Todd, and her family until he had to be put down at the age of 22. Because of his personality it was decided to name the charity after him.

Since then there have been hundreds of 'Lord Whisky's' plus cats, rabbits, horses and donkeys, many of whom go on to loving homes. Others who, like Lord Whisky, have special needs remain at the Sanctuary for the rest of their lives, enjoying the lovely Kent countryside.

The charity receives no government funding and relies entirely on donations and legacies to continue its contribution to helping animals and owners.

The aims are adhered to without exception and the interest of each individual animal is our primary concern. Expediency is never a consideration and each animal is welcome to stay in our care for as long as it takes for that special home to come. We make no apology for looking for the right homes for each animal and not animals for people. This does, of course, work to the advantage of the new owner.

No animal accepted is ever destroyed.

The National Anti-Vivisection Society (NAVS) is the world's longest established group working to end the suffering of animals in laboratories. Every year millions of animals suffer and die in cruel and futile experiments and the NAVS actively campaigns for animal experiments to be replaced with sophisticated, non-animal methods.

Redwings believes that every horse, pony, donkey and mule has the right to a happy and healthy life, free of fear and neglect.

The 100% publicly funded charity rescues neglected and abandoned horses from all over the country, giving them a safe place to live for the rest of their days, and is currently home to over 1,500 – making Redwings the UK's largest horse sanctuary.

As well as providing a place of sanctuary to rescued horses, Redwings has five visitor centres in England and Scotland that enable supporters to see how their kind donations really can make a difference to horses and donkeys in need.

Redwings' Aylsham Visitor Centre in North Norfolk was funded by the gifts people had left in their Wills and has been vital in enabling the charity to continue to provide homes for the increasing number of abandoned horses in desperate need of love and care.

Gifts in Wills make up the largest proportion of Redwings' income and the charity simply wouldn't be able to exist without them. Remembering Redwings Horse Sanctuary in your Will is a wonderful way to support the charity's work and leave a lasting legacy that will help them to help horses and donkeys for generations to come. Whether your gift is large or small, every donation makes a real difference to the future of Redwings' residents.

Honouring The Past to Improve our Future

The Trust was set up to find and restore graves and monuments pre-1914 of British and Commonwealth soldiers who are buried worldwide which have been forgotten and are slowly disintegrating. The Trust aims to create a database of these sites and then to restore them, using groups of volunteers from the UK and local communities to raise awareness of shared history and heritage. If you chose to donate to us you will be helping to preserve the legacy of Britain and the Commonwealth.

Trades and professions

SBA is run by solicitors, for solicitors and their families.

Formerly known as the Solicitors Benevolent Association, SBA has been working at the heart of the legal profession for over 150 years. It is dedicated to helping solicitors past and present, and their families, in times of need.

SBA is an independent charity working for solicitors both past and present and their families. Every year we help hundreds of people of all ages who are in serious financial need as a result of illness, accident, redundancy or other adversity.

We determine 'serious financial need' by using research produced by the Joseph Rowntree Foundation's 'Minimum Income Standard'.

We provide welfare grants, support with career transition and access to advice on welfare benefits and managing personal debt.

Social services and welfare

Britain is in a housing crisis. Times are tough, rents are rising, and many families are struggling to keep a roof over their heads, let alone get on the property ladder. For others, redundancy or illness can make people fall behind on the rent or mortgage. And every day, millions of people wake up in housing that's run down, overcrowded or dangerous.

At Shelter, we hear from people suffering from health problems and mental health issues, such as depression and stress, and families whose children are missing out on their education or are being bullied – all as a result of bad housing or homelessness.

That's why we provide free, confidential advice and support via our website, helplines, and face to face local services. We help people to find and keep a home in a place where they can thrive, and we tackle the root causes of bad housing by campaigning for new laws, policies and solutions.

Shelter believes everyone should have a home

To continue this work, we rely heavily on the gifts that supporters leave us in their wills. That's why remembering Shelter in your will is one of the most important ways that you can help.

For your guide to including Shelter in your will, please call Katie Small directly on 0344 515 1746 or email legacies@shelter.org.uk.
